“ Hello, my name is Smruti Hendre. My father owns a small shop for watch repair in Karvenagr, and my mother is a homemaker. I also have a younger brother and sister. I have completed my graduation in BCOM with a specialization in Banking and Finance. I got to know about FUEL through the Dagdusheth Halwai Trust.

Since I joined, I have gathered a lot of appreciation for the knowledge I am gaining from each individual I meet. Still, sky's the limit for me. I want to gather heaps of knowledge and be very well educated.

My perspective has gradually changed. I am a different person than I was when I began at FUEL. My skills have built up, and I am a person who is corporate-ready.

I want to be an independent daughter of my parents, I want my father to take holidays and get time to rest, and my mother should be able to buy costly things that she often refuses to buy. I want to do everything for my family, my only life goal is to give my family the lavish lifestyle they deserve. Talking about my professional goal, I want to become the chief Human Resource officer at a global company.

Recently, I have gotten three offers for internships from multinational companies. First in VFS Global, then Capgemini, and lastly Ascendion. From amongst these, I have selected Ascendion, and I have also received a PPO from them.”

“ My name is Vaishnavi, and I'm from Parbhani, Maharashtra. I come from a humble family consisting of four members. I learned about FUEL and the scholarship it offers through a friend who referred me. I applied and was fortunate to be selected.

Since joining FUEL, my perspective has changed significantly. Before, I had little understanding of management studies and how the corporate world operates. However, after being a part of FUEL, I've gained real-world knowledge and insights into these areas. This experience has greatly increased my confidence and broadened my understanding of the professional environment.

Since joining FUEL, I have achieved a lot. I was appointed as the class representative, then became a group captain, and finally, I am now a CEO Fellow. These roles have provided me with valuable leadership experience and taught me how to effectively manage priorities and my team.

My goals have evolved since joining FUEL. Initially, I aspired to become the Chief Human Resources Officer of an organization, driven by my desire to manage and support people. FUEL has provided me with invaluable knowledge, allowing me to dream bigger for my career. I am now interested in working in the CSR (Corporate Social Responsibility) field, inspired by Ketan Sir's teachings that helping others leads to personal growth.

After joining FUEL and completing my first year, I got a one-year internship with Ascendion, an MNC. FUEL provided me with this incredible opportunity, allowing me to pursue my dreams and aim high in my career. ”

“ Hello, my name is Nikita Vyavahare. I come from a very humble background where my parents both work in a breakfast center in Sadashiv Peth, Pune. I came to know about FUEL through the DagduSheth Trust, and being at this institute has changed me in many ways. First of all, I'd like to acknowledge that I feel more comfortable speaking in front of groups of people. Being here has boosted my stage confidence. I learned about the business world, improved my career options, and gained the ability to improve my skills, most importantly my communication skills. I have held several leadership positions, such as the head of the hostel committee, the discipline captain, and the red house captain. My leadership qualities have been developed by all of the above-mentioned jobs. In addition to this, I have also been placed at a MNC, VFS Global. My dream job has always been a business analyst. I've always worked tirelessly for it, and I'll be a business analyst soon. ”

My name is Vaishnavi Yadav, I come from a very normal family background where my father is a press reporter and my mother is a homemaker. I've completed my 12th grade in science and scored 93 percentile in MHCET. After 12th grade, I was searching for different colleges online, and I came across FUEL Business School's website and the scholarship they are providing to young women such as myself. That is how I found out about FUEL and its opportunities.

Joining Fuel has broadened my perspective in many ways. Interacting with corporations and members of the industry and listening to their thoughts has exposed me to diverse viewpoints and critical thinking. Being here, I've gained great confidence to express my thoughts and enhanced my critical thinking. Additionally, I was honored to receive a leadership award here, which helped me foster skills development. Before FUEL, I was not sure about my goals. I used to be so confused about what I actually wanted. But being here for the past 8 months, I've learned so much, and now my only goal is to be in a better position in the future to provide such scholarships and opportunities to the less fortunate to help them achieve their goals, as it has helped me. Our college provides internships right from the very first year of our degree, and mine is with Ascendion. Here we learned about data cleaning, data tracking, data intelligence, managing events, leading a team, marketing, and leaving the internship with a PPO in hand. All these key qualities have made us confident enough to work with excellence wherever we choose and in whichever field we choose.

“ My name is Diksha Chandrakant Lambe, and I originate from Aurangabad. Regarding my family background, there are six members in my family. My father works at Varroc, my mother is a homemaker, and I have two elder sisters and one elder brother. I have completed my BTech from CSMSS Chh. Shahu College of Engineering in Computer Science and Engineering with an 8.34 CGPA. After completing graduation, I wanted to learn and develop my skills further, so I came to Pune and joined Qspider Classes for full stack development. Here, I learned about front-end and back-end development. Now, I am pursuing a PGDM in Business Analytics from FUEL Business School. I am very grateful to be a part of FUEL, as they have provided me with many opportunities. Recently, I was placed at Capgemini, which is a significant opportunity for me to work for a multinational company. I am very thankful to FUEL. I will continue to give my 100% effort to grow my skills here and make the most of this opportunity. ”

My name is Nisha Waghmare, and I come from the Latur district, where my father works tirelessly as a dedicated farmer. Growing up in this environment, I have always admired the resilience and hard work that define our family's spirit. With a Bachelor's degree in B. Com, I embarked on a challenging journey that was marked by financial hurdles during my graduation. My story is one of determination and aspiration, transitioning from a small family in a rural setting to pursuing higher education at FUEL Business School, after completing my B. Com degree, I found myself in a difficult situation. Financial difficulties made the dream of further education seem unattainable. However, I refused to let my circumstances limit my potential. It was then that I discovered FUEL Business School, a beacon of hope that transformed the trajectory of my life. Currently, I am enrolled in a post-graduation diploma in management at FUEL Business School, where I am immersed in an environment that not only sharpens my skills but also offers comprehensive support. I am actively involved in the scholarship committee and handle various events, experiences that have significantly boosted my confidence. My dream is to achieve self-sufficiency and secure a promising position in a reputable company, fulfilling the aspirations my parents have for me. At this moment, I stand at the threshold of a brighter future, eager to enhance my knowledge and skills. FUEL Business School has not only ignited my ambitions but also illuminated a clear path to success. I am deeply grateful for the opportunities it has provided me. Now, I am poised to reach my goals, guided by hope and driven by determination.”

My name is Shraddha Kasar from Pune, Maharashtra. My family includes my mother and my younger brother. After my father passed away, my mother became the sole provider for my younger brother and me. She put in immense effort to support my education despite our challenging financial situation.

I have a solid educational background, Completed my Bachelor's degree in commerce. And I am the first-generation learner of my family. I discovered FUEL through the DagduSheth Trust, and my experience at this institute has transformed me in numerous ways.

During my time at the institution, I actively honed my skills by serving on the Scholarship Committee, where I played a crucial role in assisting deserving students in obtaining scholarships. I also developed strong communication and coordination abilities by liaising with speakers and CxO-level officers for various management events, ensuring smooth and effective interactions. Additionally, as a CEO Management Fellow at Fuel Business School, I developed strong leadership qualities. These experiences greatly enhanced my organizational and interpersonal skills.

In my life, I want to make my family happy and financially independent. I want to give my mother the reward for all the struggles she faced, especially after my father's death. I aspire to become Chief Financial Officer (CFO) and achieve something significant in life so that I can be an idol for others in the future.

Completing my first year at FUEL led to a pre-placement offer from VFS Global. This incredible opportunity, provided by FUEL, allowed me to chase my dreams and aim for higher career aspiration

I am Kaveri Supekar, enrolled in the PGDM course at FUEL Business School. Hailing from a modest family in Chhatrapati Sambhaji Nagar, my father is a farmer while my mother manages our home. I have always felt the weight of responsibility, especially considering our financial constraints. Financial limitations initially deterred my pursuit of an PGDM, leading me to explore other paths such as working in HR during the pandemic at FUEL Business School.

The turning point came when I discovered the FUEL Scholarship. With the support of the scholarship, I realized that my aspirations were within reach. Upon securing admission, a wave of relief washed over me, and I pledged to dedicate every day to this transformative journey. My ultimate dream is to ascend to the pinnacle of the knowledge I am acquiring here at FUEL Business School. With each passing day, I am one step closer to turning that dream into reality. A sincere thank you to FUEL for being the cornerstone of my journey, turning aspirations into tangible achievements.

My name is Aditi Vishwas Dhongadi, and I am a 22-year-old resident of Balaji Nagar, Pune. I completed my 11th and 12th grades through a Bachelor Vocational program specializing in Accounting and graduated with a vocational course in Retail Management from Savitribai Phule Pune University. Currently, I am pursuing a Post Graduate Diploma in Management at FUEL Business School, where I am eager to deepen my knowledge and skills.

I have four years of experience as an Accountant and Cash Counter Manager at a dry fruits and spices store. This role has provided me with a strong foundation in finance and customer service. My hobbies include crafting, traveling, cooking, and learning new things, which help me stay inspired and engaged in my personal and professional life. My ultimate goal is to attain a higher position in a reputed company and eventually pursue a career in law.

My family has been my greatest support system, with my parents and teachers serving as my role models. Raised by my mother, a single parent, I have drawn immense inspiration from her strength and dedication. My family of four—my mother, my elder sister, my younger brother, and I—has always encouraged me to grow without barriers. Similarly, my college teachers have guided me like a daughter, offering invaluable support throughout my academic journey.

I am excited to contribute my skills and passion to FUEL, working alongside a dedicated team to create a lasting impact. I aim to lead by example, inspire others to achieve common goals, and address challenges with creative solutions. The education and training I have received at FUEL have been immensely beneficial, enhancing my capabilities and preparing me for future success in my career.

NAME - PRIYANKA NAGALE

ROLL NO. - 202311015

COURSE - PGDM

My name is Priyanka Vijay Nagale. I am from Nashik, Maharashtra. I have completed a bachelor's degree in commerce. I learned about FUEL from my relatives. My perspective has drastically changed since I've begun to study here. I was surrounded by lots of bookish knowledge, but that knowledge wasn't sufficient to survive in the corporate world. Upskilling, reskilling, and upgrading yourself is necessary.

Through FUEL, I have gained a bulk of experience along with the learnings of both bookish and hands-on knowledge, providing me with a stacked skillset. I now have experience working with people who have a different mindset and how to learn and adapt to that.

My goal is to become a Chief Financial Officer. I have learned a lot about finance and the new terminologies of finance, and yes, they have changed me and my way of thinking.

Through FUEL, several students have started working on an internship. Using the extensive report-writing and presentation skills that I have collected now through FUEL, I have been selected for an internship at Ascendion MNC company as an intern. It's a great opportunity, which has also provided me with a confirmed PPO.

With heartfelt Appreciation,
Priyanka Nagale.
